Westland water lead levels 'acceptable'

Water samples in Westland were all below the lead levels determined as actionable by The federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Still, the city will circle to back to the two homes where the lead levels came close to the 15 parts per billion for lead in drinking water.

Members of the Westland City Council heard a report from Fred Hoitash of RTI Laboratory where the testing was performed following allegations last month of impropriety in the handling of lead pipes in the city by an employee of the Department of Public Services.

Samples were collected from 380 homes in the city and Hoitash said that more than 90 percent of those samples contained less than the actionable levels as dictated by the EPA. He also told the council members that the test results at the independent laboratory correlated with the lead and copper testing results performed by the city.

> Still, the city will circle to back to the two homes where the lead levels came close to the 15 parts per billion for lead in drinking water.

He told the council members that 237 of the samples tested had no detectable level of lead while another 103 samples had less than 1 part per billion. He said 31 samples were at from 1 to 5 parts per billion and two homes had 10-14 parts per billion.

Mayor William Wild said that the city would "circle back" to see if there are repairs or changes the city could help residents perform at the two homes where the levels approached the actionable level. He suggested that the problem could be in the pipes on the residents' property or inside the homes. He said that the city would also revisit the homes where the samples had levels more than 5 parts per billion.

The testing, budgeted at $75,000, took samples from homes in the area pf Palmer to Glenwood and Wayne Road to Wildwood. The Michigan Department of Environmental Quality was notified of the testing and requested the city test four addresses within the specified area. Those homes showed results of no detectable lead to 10 parts per billion.

Results were mailed to the individual property owners.

Teen sentenced to prison in murder plot

Roksana Sikorski, the Plymouth Township teen charged as an adult in a plot to murder her family was sentenced to serve from 10 to 20 years in prison Tuesday in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Sikorski accepted a plea arrangement with prosecutors and entered a guilty plea to the attack in which she slashed the throat of her the 12-year-old brother in October of 2014. In exchange for the guilty plea to one count of assault with intent to murder, six other felony charges against her, including conspiracy to murder, were dropped by prosecutors.

The attack, according to prosecutors, was part of a plot Sikorski, then 15, and her boyfriend, Michael Rivera, 22 at the time, devised to murder her entire family as they slept so the two could run away together. Prosecutors said the two were exchanging text messages as Sikorski got a knife from the kitchen to slash the throats of her two siblings and parents. The explicit messages, including instructions and anatomical diagrams, were found by police investigators as they pursued Sikorski and Rivera to his Detroit apartment where the pair was arrested the morning after the attack. Both have remained in police custody since their arrest.

Rivera, now 24, is serving a life sentence after his conviction on seven felony counts by a jury. Sikorski accepted the plea deal from prosecutors Feb. 22. According to police reports, Sikorski entered her brother's room, placed her hand over his mouth and held the knife at his throat. He awoke and his throat was slashed as he ran screaming from his sister, according to investigators. His scream awoke his parents. Sikorski dropped the knife and she and Rivera fled the area as her parents called for emergency help.

All three of the children were adopted from a polish orphanage about 11 years ago. Her parents said Roksana Sikorski suffered psychological problems from the early-childhood abuse and that Rivera was the instigator of the attempted murder plot.

Her parents have protested the plea deal. They have claimed that she was coerced into the sexual relationship and the murder plot by Rivera.

Rivera's attorney claimed that Sikorski initiated the plot in an effort to help Rivera avoid a statutory rape complaint her parents filed in an attempt to end the ongoing sexual relationship between the pair.

Prosecutors said Sikorski was charged as an adult due to the nature of the crime and the graphic instructional text and phone messages presented by investigators.

Having a ball

Romulus Mayor Leroy Burcroff and Belleville Mayor Kerreen Conley were the hosts of the Mayor's Ball last month. The event is a fundraiser for the Boys and Girls Clubs that serves the two communities. "We had record attendance, we had record revenue," said Burcroff. "It was a great event." The third annual event was a sold-out affair, according to event organizer Rob MacLachlan, with 250 attending. He said more than $25,000 had been raised through donors and sponsors. "The cool thing is all those proceeds will go to help kids out," said Burcroff. Also last month, a euchre tournament fundraiser generated more than $2,000 to help pay for a new gate at the Romulus Cemetery. Jan Lemmon, a member of the cemetery board, said all 100 tickets were sold for the fundraiser. The total raised was $2,040-which included half of the winnings the highest scorer, Romulus Treasurer Stacy Paige, donated back to the event.

New teachers' pact offers no pay increase

Teachers in the Plymouth Canton Community Schools have ratified a new union agreement that offers no salary increase for the next two years.

Teachers were split about 60-40 in favor of acceptance of the new contract when they voted March 19 and 21. The only pay increase included in the new contract is a $75 per year increase in longevity pay, due those with the most seniority in the district. There are no step or salary increases in the first year but a one step increase in seniority during the second year.

Teachers also accepted a decrease in their annual classroom allowance, from $100 to $50.

Plymouth Canton teachers have received no wage increase since the 2006-2007 school year when a 2-percent raise was dictated by their contract. In 2008-2009, those at the top of the step program received a 2-percent increase.

Bob Williams, president of the Plymouth Canton Education Association, the union that represents the teachers, said that the membership is not happy. He described the contract as "concessionary" and said that this is still a wage freeze. Teachers rejected a tentative contract in December which included many of the same provisions accepted on this vote.

Teachers in the district are on a 14-step seniority plan, changed from an 11-step plan five years ago. Teachers on the first step are paid a base salary of $39,954

Armed robbery suspects sought

Romulus police are continuing their investigation into the armed robbery of the Chase Bank on Middlebelt Road last week.

According to police reports, officers responded to a call of the bank being robbed at about 9:24 a.m. March 23. Witnesses told the officers that two men arrived at the bank in an unknown type of vehicle. Both suspects entered through the front door of the bank, witnesses said, and one of the men approached and jumped over the teller counter while the other held the other employees at gunpoint.

Two employees were forced at gunpoint to open the vault, witnesses said, and the two suspects then took a large amount of cash.

The two stole an employee's car keys and fled the bank driving her minivan northbound on Middlebelt Road. The suspects later abandoned the minivan in the area of Farnum and Garner streets where police suspect they got into a black Dodge Charger and fled westbound on Smith Road.

Both suspects were described by the witnesses as

Fire department plans 'controlled' area burns

Spring maintenance of several nature areas in Canton Township will include some prescribed burning of areas in an effort to promote new growth.

The Canton Park Division, in cooperation with Canton Public Safety, will mange the prescribed burns in designated areas as weather conditions permit. The burns will take place at the Flodin Park nature trail, Sheldon and Warren natural area, the Lower Rouge Trail Head, and at designated holes at Pheasant Run Golf Club, once optimal conditions are met, a spokesperson said.

Prescribed Burns are a native friendly maintenance process often utilized to promote natural plant life. Fire is used as a natural process to promote the growth of native plants. Native species are promoted by the burning of these areas in the spring to remove all non-native plants, explained Canton Parks and Sports Supervisor Abe Vinitski.

"The main purpose of these burns is to decrease the threat of wild fires, as well as managing wildlife habitats," said Vinitski.

"Prescribed burns also help to improve plant community composition and increase ecosystem diversity, all while assisting in invasive plant control."

Area residents can expect to see and smell smoke in the vicinity, as well as a possible increase in fire vehicle traffic in these areas, he added. Trained personnel will be on site controlling the fire and ensuring proper smoke management and the safety of surrounding areas until all fires are extinguished, Vinitski said.

Police issue warning after coyote attack

A Canton Township pet was attacked and killed by a coyote in the backyard of the family home last week.

Canton Township police reported that the owner had released two dogs, both Bichon Frise, into the backyard of the home which is near Saltz and Beck roads, just after 5 a.m. March 18.

The smaller of the two dogs was attacked by a coyote in the yard, while the other dog was not harmed. The owner, responding to the noise from the attack, took his injured pet to a local veterinarian where the small animal died from the injuries inflicted by the coyote, which ran off immediately after the attack, according to police reports.

The Bichon Frise is a small dog, usually weighing 9-14 pounds while coyotes usually weight 15 to 44 pounds and resemble a medium-size German shepherd.

According to Canton police, sightings of coyotes, who usually live on a diet of small mammals and reptiles, fruit, insects and carrion, have been prevalent across metro-Detroit for several years, and similar attacks on family dogs have recently been reported in Grosse Ile and Shelby Township.

According to Michigan's Department of Natural Resources, coyotes have migrated into urban and suburban areas throughout the state. Coyotes are most likely to be spotted during their breeding period, which occurs in Michigan from mid-January into March. Coyotes are active day and night, however, peak activity usually occurs at sunrise and sunset.

The size and weight of coyotes are commonly overestimated because of their long fur masking a bone structure that is slightly smaller than most domestic dogs, police said in a prepared statement. When running, coyotes carry their tail below the level of their backs.

> Coyotes are opportunistic, and will prey on unattended small dogs and cats.

In urban areas coyotes are attracted to garbage, garden vegetables and optional pet foods. Coyotes are opportunistic, and will prey on unattended small dogs and cats. However, because coyotes are known to have an instinctive fear of people, coyotes rarely attack humans, the release said.

Police included a number of cautions to assist in minimizing a potential conflict with a coyote:

- Never approach or touch a coyote
- Never intentionally feed a coyote
- Eliminate all outside food sources, especially pet food
- Put garbage out the morning of pick-up
- Clear out wood and brush piles; they are a habitat for mice and may attract coyotes
- Do not allow pets to roam free when coyotes are present-consider keeping pets indoors or accompany them outside, especially from dusk until dawn

Because we share the community with wild animals, a coyote sighting should not automatically be considered a cause for concern. If residents feel they are in danger of a coyote, or if they observe a coyote in obvious distress, they should contact the police department," said Canton Township Police Special Services Lt. Craig Wilsher. "Otherwise, residents are encouraged to follow the tips provided to minimize interaction with wildlife."

Reports of a coyote in distress or causing a threat can be called in to the non-emergency line at (734) 394-5400. Emergency situations should always be called in through 9-1-1.

Residents with nuisance wildlife issues are advised to contact Varmit Police at (734) 729-0858 or at www.varmitpolice.com. Varmit Police is a private wildlife management company servicing western Wayne County, is not a part of the Canton Public Safety Department.

College 'brews up' new craft program

Jason Lorenz had just graduated with an associate's degree in Computer Science when he and his wife stumbled upon the Craft Brewing Program at Wayne County Community College District (WCCCD). A 4.0 student, Lorenz was already brewing beer as a hobby and thought why not learn more about it - in theory and in practice.

"I have been home brewing for many years and I saw this as an opportunity to take a hobby that I love and turn it into something more - like a career," said Lorenz. "As a home brewer, you are not exposed to a lot of production equipment, but this program has its own dedicated fermentation science classes, microbiology lab and production brewing facility to really give you hands-on experience that I would not have otherwise."

When he began to research more about the WCCCD program he decided that the classes would help him with his ambition to open his own brewery.

The program housed at the WCCCD Western Campus in Belleville is designed to educate students in the craft brewing market - understanding the culture, science and technologies behind modern production brewing is a large focus of the program.

"The Craft Brewing Program is a perfect example of how WCCCD responds to the changing economy and job prospects of our state," commented campus President Michael P. Dotson.

"I believe the goal is when you leave, you are in a position to understand what it is to be a brewer in a production facility and in a good position to take on an apprenticeship or as a brewer if you excelled in the program," said Lorenz.

Although the definition varies, a micro-brewery or craft brewery is a brewery that produces a small amount of beer. Exact definitions vary, but the terms are typically applied to breweries that are much smaller than large-scale corporate breweries and are independently owned.

Although an amateur brewer, Lorenz benefited greatly from the education. "I found that water and temperature ranges are way more important than I thought before," he said. "You don't have to be precise, but if you are trying to hit a certain flavor profile, you need to worry about temperature in every step of the process."

The program enables students to talk with working brew masters and go on field trips to breweries. "Seeing a real system up close was an amazing experience," Lorenz explained. "Reading a book on brewing is nothing compared to learning from someone who does this day in and day out. That inside knowledge is invaluable."

The Brewers Association ranks Michigan 14th in the United States for craft breweries per capita. The state ranks 10th in barrels produced with 825,103 barrels of craft beer produced per year. In 2014, craft beers in the United States accounted for 17.6 percent of beer sales.

Justin Riopelle, right, master brewer at Detroit Beer Co. and instructor at the craft beer program at the Belleville campus of Wayne County Community College District, and graduate Jason Lorenz sample some unique beer flavors.

Having experience as a home brewer, Lorenz faced few challenges other that working full time and having a family and making time to take on these courses. He hopes the WCCCD certificate leads him to work at a brewery or the ability to go into business for himself.

"With craft beer exploding and the number of small breweries opening up today, having a program that is accessible to people and taught by industry insiders is a large step up in the community of brewers and it has the potential to really hit a market that is saturated with inexperienced people," said Lorenz.

"In a program like this, all of the business, science and technology can meet the art of brewing and turn into a wonderful and delightful beverage. Craft is what has been coined 'the great equalizer' by Joe McClain, president of the Beer Institute, 'Beer is a unifier and equalizer.'"

Dotson added that the Craft Brewing Program "gives students the knowledge and training that will help them to be employed in a micro-brewery or to open their own business in this rapidly-growing industry."

Old Village project is OK'd for brownfield tax plan

The four Plymouth commissioners in attendance at the meeting last week unanimously agreed to a brownfield plan for the Starkweather School project in Old Village.

The plan will allow the project to apply for tax-increment financing to help the development of 22 loft apartments and 23 single-family homes on the 5.57 acre site on Holbrook. Mark Menuck of Curtis-Plymouth LLC, the developer of the project, said work could begin as early as this spring at the vacant school building purchased from the Plymouth-Canton district for $1.15 million.

Menuck said the plan will keep many of the historic features of the school, originally built in 1927.

"We want to build a really nice higher-end community for Old Village," said Menuck, a third-generation builder and a partner in Curtis-Plymouth LLC. The project is estimated to cost $2.5 to $3 million.

He said the single family homes would be at least 2,000 square feet and fit the styles currently in Old Village. Prices for the homes, he said, would be in the $500,000 range.

The new financing will allow the city to reserve the property tax revenue from the site and use up to $1.07 million of those funds to reimburse the developers for the cost of restoring the school building over 11 years. Eligible costs would include hazard remediation, like the removal of lead paint or asbestos insulation and the restoration of original wood flooring or ceilings that were not part of the original building.

Administration costs of $165,000 will be paid to the city and $412,492 of the reserved tax money will be deposited in the site remediation revolving fund in the city during the last four years of the plan.

The original plan of the developers was to raze the school building for the construction of the new apartments. Menuck said that he worked with city officials, preservationists and residents of Old Village to save the old school building. The developers are applying for recognition of the building from the National Register of Historic Places which would also, if approved, make the project eligible for tax credits.

Commissioners Colleen Pobur, Oliver Wolcott, Joe Valenti and Mike Wright voted to approve the brownfield plan.

Mayor Dan Dwyer and commissioners Dan Dalton and Suzi Deal did not attend the meeting.

Happy anniversary

Toni Monteith celebrated 30 years working at Station 885 restaurant in Old Village recently. On hand to congratulate her were Jerry Costanza, left, of LaBistecca restaurant, and his brother, Station 885 owner Robert Costanza. "She's a great employee and has always been a great promoter of the restaurant. She is such an asset, she's like everybody's mom, and everyone goes to her for some level-headed advice," Robert Costanza said. "Thirty years is a long time and we think of her as part of the family." Photo by Dave Willett

Police determine motorist's death was suicide

Romulus police have determined the death of a 22-year-old resident found dead next to his vehicle recently was a suicide.

According to police reports, officers were called to the intersection of Beverly Road and Henry Ruff Road near Beverly Park following a report of a suspicious vehicle in the area.

Members of the Michigan State Police crime lab team arrived on the scene to process and gather evidence. The unknown man's body was released to the office of the Wayne County Medical Examiner where an autopsy was performed.

Police said in a prepared statement, "We have thoroughly examined all the facts associated with this incident, including evidence left behind by the victim. Additionally, we have worked in conjunction with the Medical Examiner's Office. It is unfortunate that the victim decided to end his own life."

Officers also offered their thanks to the community the assistance provided in for the case and condolences to the family of the deceased.

Police said in the statement that anyone struggling with suicidal thoughts is encouraged to seek help through the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline, 1-800-273-TALK.

There is no cost to call the service.

Wayne - Westland

Health center celebrates grand opening

Wayne County Executive Warren C. Evans joined partners from Beaumont Health, University of Detroit Mercy School of Dentistry and the Department of Health, Veterans and Community Wellness (HVCW) to officially open the new Wayne Health Center during a ribbon cutting ceremony last week.

Wayne County used a $700,000 grant from the United States Department of Health & Human Services to transform the 25,000 square-foot space into a full-service, federally qualified health center with eight remodeled examination rooms. The expansion from two to four evaluation rooms for recipients of Women, Infants and Children (WIC) services will allow for increased access to care, a spokesperson said and added that the dental suite will receive an increase in dentistry stations from three to five later this spring.

The Wayne Health Center located at 33030 Van Born Road in Wayne serves residents in the cities of Wayne, Westland, Romulus and Inkster where there is only one primary care doctor for every 4,100 residents. The new health center will deliver an expanded level of services that include: Immunizations, Behavioral Health, Nutrition Counseling, Pediatrics, OBGYN and WIC.

During his State of the County address, Evans said providing residents with access to quality health care is "a top priority for my administration." He reiterated that message at the ribbon cutting ceremony noting that the health center will lower barriers to health care in western Wayne County and discussed the impact the new partnerships with Beaumont Health and the University of Detroit Mercy School of Dentistry will have on the community.

"Our residents will greatly benefit from these new partnerships," Evans said. "Now it's more convenient for residents to receive the health services they need and deserve. For example, when you visit this center, physicians and health care professionals from the Family Medicine program of Beaumont Hospital-Wayne are working side by side with Wayne County's public health nurses."

"Beaumont Health is committed to delivering high quality, affordable care to the families and communities we serve," said Ashok Jain, M.D., senior vice president and chief medical officer, Beaumont Hospital, Wayne. "Partnering with the county on this new health center will help ensure our neighbors in the Wayne community have yet another resource to receive access to health care."

Evans also said a full range of dental services are soon to be offered because of the partnership with the University of Detroit Mercy School of Dentistry. The dental school will provide dentists and dental students that can provide services at a low cost, and the school will benefit from the volume and opportunity to expand their teaching program.

"The University of Detroit Mercy School of Dentistry is excited to partner with Wayne County and Beaumont Health to provide dental services and be a part of a comprehensive healthcare solution for citizens of western Wayne County," said Dr. Mert Aksu, dean of the U of D Mercy School of Dentistry.

Wayne County Executive Warren C. Evans, far left, Dr. Mouhanad Hammami, director of the Wayne County Department of Health, Wayne County Commissioner Al Haidous join officials from Beaumont Health and the Detroit Mercy School of Dentistry to officially open the new Wayne Health Center.

Dr. Mouhanad Hammami, director of the Wayne County Department of Health Veterans and Community Wellness said, "The Wayne Health Center is providing affordable access to healthcare for some of our most vulnerable citizens. In addition to having access to health care, we also teach the preventable methods of health care and provide patients with information on our other department services."

The Wayne Health Center accepts most insurance. Those who are uninsured are offered service based on their income. If insurance is needed, the Department of Health, Veterans and Community Wellness has outreach specialists who can help residents with their Affordable Care Act application, Medicaid and Health and Human Service paperwork, a spokesperson added.

Hours of operation are 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The center is open from 11 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. For further information or to make appointments call The Wayne Health Center at (734) 727-7101.

Westland offering safety vests to pedestrians

Safety issues for pedestrians in the Norwayne area drew the attention of Wayne County Commissioner Al Haidous, D-Wayne, State Rep. Robert Kosowski, D-Westland and representatives of the Westland Police Department, including Deputy Police Chief Todd Adams recently, during a meeting of the Norwayne Community Citizens Council.

About 25 residents attended the meeting which addressed the recent fatalities of pedestrians in the area. Adams told the crowd that the victims were all crossing out of the designated crosswalk areas at night and while wearing dark clothing.

One safety measure being offered is reflective vests the city will provide at no cost to residents who walk regularly during night hours. The reflective vests were purchased by the police department using community partnership funds, according to Adams, and are now available at the Jefferson Barns Community Vitality Center, the police station and city hall.
